

102 Celebrations of Biblical Women's Stories

Get in pairs and stand in a circle. If this is done with fixed chairs or pews, just hold hands and sway during the verses.

Chorus: The left persons from each pair bow their heads to receive blessings. On "El Shaddai, mother who shelters...." the right persons slowly lift their right arms out to the side and up and then gently bring them down, placing their right hands on the heads of their partners. On "Under your wings...." they slowly lift their left arms out to the side and up, gently placing their left hands on the heads of their partners.

They hold hands there for a moment, then bring them down, very gently touching the shoulders and arms of the person being blessed. During the next chorus, the persons on the right bow their heads and those on the left bless them. They continue to alternate on each chorus.

Verses: The partners hold both hands, look into each other's eyes, and walk around in a circle.
